To Keep Roads Open for Automobile Traffic During Winter Months

Large Attendance of Citizens and Rural Representatives at Meeting in Council Chamber Presided Over by Mayor Montgomery—Four Committees Appointed

In response to a request that a meeting be held in the interest of keeping the roads open for automobile traffic during the winter months, a large attendance of citizens and rural representatives gathered in the Council Chambers on Tuesday night.

Mayor Montgomery was appointed chairman and R. J. Grant secretary of the meeting.

Considerable discussion took place and all were unanimous in their support of the interest of the community at large that the roads should be kept open.

The following committees were appointed to find ways and means to accomplish the problem:

City Committee—Mayor Montgomery, H. Brown, H. E. Chalmers, H. R. French and R. J. Grant.

Rural Committee—South Pigeon Lake Road, C. Isaacson, E. Kaiser, E. Strohsehn; Malmo Road, Paul Mossion, L. Dussard, Roy Ballhorn; Bitters Lake Road, Dick Ballhorn, John Maynard, Chris Maynard; Sparling Road, T. T. Jerve, J. J. Anderson, Ben Anderson; New Norway Road, Carl A. Johnson; C. & E. North Road, Sam Lucas, V. E. Thompson; C. & E. South Road, W. G. Askey, C. F. Pennington; Nashville Road, Nic Davidson; Duhamel Road, John A. Johnson; North Pigeon Lake Road, Charles Cummings, Ed. Dickau; Bears Hill Road, H. T. Rix, C. Fontaine, E. Lundell.

Advertising Committee—V. C. French, H. R. French and R. J. Grant.

Finance Committee—Mayor Montgomery, H. Brown, H. E. Chalmers and A. P. Moan.

MORE ROLLING STOCK TO BE PURCHASED BY ALBERTA RAILWAYS

Edmonton, Nov. 9.—More rolling stock for the Alberta Government railway lines is to be purchased in order to take care of the increasing volume of business now being done and in sight. The government has authorized the necessary expenditure and steps are now being taken by the railways department to ascertain the best type of cars for the purposes desired, and where they may be obtained. It is likely that four cars, two of which will be day coaches and two sleepers, will be ordered in the near future.

Another Very Interesting Letter Is Received from P. C. Petersen

920, 2nd street, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

To our friends in and around Wetaskiwin:

As we are now finally located at the above address, we will now give you a description of our trip, with six of us in a 1915 Ford, a Teddy Bear trailer, a trailer at the rear with some 700 lbs. of luggage. Sept. 20th we started our last night in Wetaskiwin. We got to Port. We went away from there Sept. 21st loaded down with chicken and cookies. We made that day down to Olds had dinner with our old friend, Sam Murray, at Lamborne. Olds has not much of a tourist camp, but we started the next morning refreshed for Calgary. Arriving at Calgary about 2 p.m. we put in about two hours hunting an auto camp, which we finally found, very good too. They had this camp Sunshine. We met a man there who had stopped in your camp at Wetaskiwin, and said it was the most beautiful little camp that he had come across in his travels.

Sept. 22nd we went to get our papers fixed up at the U.S. Consulate. We were lucky in getting there early in the morning, for through this Consul an average of 25 visas are issued.

It seems too bad that so many people should leave good old Canada, but I suppose more than that number are coming to Canada. After getting our papers we pulled stakes and drove down to Stanton, where we stopped with some friends, a Mr. and Mrs. Jewell. We had a real good time with them, and while there we had quite a little snow. From there on our troubles began. Our Ford car failed to get up power on account of having no gasoline, and not knowing that gasoline was the trouble, we monkeyed with the spark plugs, got a new carburetor, new roller in the timer, and nobody thought about the bad gasoline. However, we kept going through mud and slush until we were stuck at Stanton, and kept going for we wanted to go as far as we could. Two miles south of Macleod one of

STRONG CASE FOR ALBERTA'S COAL

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—Discussing the imperative necessity in the interest of the whole country for the capacity development of Alberta's vast coal resources, the Tribune editorially states: "Alberta's coal mines with an output capacity of 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 tons, are producing about 6,000,000."

"Ontario could be a market for 4,000,000 tons of Alberta coal if it could be shipped at a freight rate that would enable it to compete with American coal."

"Getting such a market would mean increasing employment in the Alberta mines 66 per cent."

"It would keep in Canada $50,000,000 now paid out to American coal miners and railways."

"That $50,000,000 would provide employment for 29,000 more workmen in Canada directly."

"That would be the same thing as setting down in Canada another city of the size of Ottawa."

"Feeding, housing, clothing and providing generally for the wants of these 29,000 workmen and their families would provide employment for an almost equal number."

"Keeping that $50,000,000 a year working in Canada would mean that it would be turned over at least twice, perhaps three times in the course of a year. Sending it out of the country, is a total loss."

"It would be sound business for the Dominion government to pay out of the federal treasury any actual loss sustained by the railways in giving a freight rate that would enable Ontario to burn Alberta coal."

Miss Edith Sinclair of Toronto, National Girls' Work Secretary for the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will visit Wetaskiwin on Monday, November 14th. Miss Sinclair will address a general meeting at St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening.

SCHOOL NOTES

Some years ago when a student first entered High School he was faced with the task of taking a certain number of compulsory subjects and passing through, not subject by subject, but by grade. If he wished to study Latin or French, he could do so, but these subjects were "extra" and gave him no direct credit for his efforts along these lines.

About four years ago, the system was considerably changed, and now instead of passing by grade, he passes by subjects, obtaining one "unit" of credit for each subject successfully written off. This is called the "unit" system. Each subject is considered one unit and a student may take any desired number in one unit, with the approval of his principal. The different courses offered are: Normal Entrance, Junior Matriculation, Agricultural and General. Twenty-one units are required, covering usually three years of study.

Eight additional units are necessary for Senior Matriculation or entrance to First Class at Normal. In the case of the Normal Entrance course, seventeen of the units are compulsory, the remaining four may be chosen from a number of optional subjects.

The boy or girl just entering High School has, as a rule, very little idea what course is best suited to her or him. This difficulty need not concern him at this stage, however, since of the eight subjects taught in the first year, six are compulsory—Literature, Composition, History, Algebra, Geometry and General Science. He may select one or both of the optional subjects, Latin which are also given. A student hoping to complete the twenty-one units in three years, should take the six required ones and at least one of French or Latin. It will be seen that the student is thus given a year to decide upon his future course. If more units are optional, if he is successful in obtaining seven credits the first year, it leaves him fourteen for the next two years or seven each year. Should he fail, however, in a number of these first year subjects, it may necessitate a fourth year to secure the needed twenty-one units.

While it is customary for the student to complete 21 units in three years, there is no reason why pupils wishing to proceed at a slower rate should not do so. In fact, the Department of Education advises that those who wish to take the combined course for Normal Entrance and Junior Matriculation, spread the work over four years.

While each unit of a year carries approximately the same amount of work, the time spent on any one subject by different students will vary considerably owing to their special aptitudes. Generally speaking, the time spent on subjects should be inversely proportional to their ability in those subjects.

We have given briefly an idea of the courses and the first year unit. In future issues of this paper, more will be said about the units of the next two years.

We should like to bring to the attention of parents this fact, that any High School functions which are held during the year, will close not later than at midnight.

BULL MOOSE LOCKS HORNS WITH MOTOR

Cranbrook, B.C., Nov. 4.—On Wednesday, some tourists from Washington, arrived here with their windshield broken and the top of their car ripped open. They explained that they had had an encounter with a bull moose on the Banff-Windermere highway, with resultant damage to their car.

The party came around a curve and was met by the first of these "wild beasts." They didn't know whether the moose charged them or they charged the moose, but the fact is very clear that the moose met them head-on as his horns went through the windshield and top before he decided to call it a day. They reported seeing another car which had been upset in a similar encounter.

The hall was artistically decorated, the music which was supplied by Graydon Tipp's orchestra was the best, and a record crowd was in attendance. Over $100 cash was realized.

CIVIL ACTION AGAINST SMITH IS DISMISSED

Edmonton, Nov. 4.—The civil action of the provincial treasury against G. P. Smith, former minister of education in Alberta, in 1921, for $5,520, alleged to have been received and retained by defendant since July 27, 1921, was dismissed with costs by Mr. Justice Hyndman, at 5:30 Thursday afternoon in the supreme court at the end of the trial.

This closes the third and final chapter to the government printing scandal of 1921, which resulted in a royal commission in November, 1926, and a criminal trial in February, 1926, in which the Crown did not proceed against J. W. Jeffery, former King's printer, and Matt Bodala, former manager of Bodale Press, on the conspiracy charges, and at which the jury acquitted G. P. Smith on a charge of theft.

All turned on what happened in the Merchants Bank on that day, stated P. L. Smith, former plaintiff's chief counsel, in his address and submitting that "there is no middle road; your lordship must find that Smith or Purdy got the money."

O. M. Biggar, K.C., chief defence counsel, urged that plaintiff's claim was faulty in law and instead of more proof of receipt of the money being needed, as opposing counsel contended, there must be evidence of fraud that goes to the extent of "an arrangement" among those who are alleged to have conspired and the plaintiff's case failed. He also urged the "wild improbability that a man of defendant's standing would act in accord with that of plaintiff."

In his finding, his lordship said it was a case of preponderance of evidence and as far as it went he would not feel justified in finding that "defendant got the money" nor did he think that Purdy got it.

TREES PLANTED IN EARLY DAYS BRING REWARD

Toronto, Nov. 2.—Pioneer spirit and clever foresight of Sir William Mulock, chief justice of Ontario, in planting thousands of black walnut trees many years ago, when a much younger man, has brought reward now. It is estimated that when all the black walnut trees on his acres near Newmarket mature, they will be worth in the neighbourhood of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000.

In 1852, William Mulock, well-known lawyer and M.P. in the still new Dominion parliament, bought a farm near Newmarket. Its main asset seemed to be the staleness of its variety of wonderful trees. Forty years ago he used the successful growth and development of the few black walnut trees planted; a tree very scarce in Canada, being a native of the southern States. Sir William also had the foresight to realize that with the disappearance of black walnuts, their value would increase.

Including in a pioneer adventure Sir William planted 15,000 black walnut seedlings. It was a big adventure, but he had the courage of his convictions. Even when three years later there was nothing to show for his adventure, Sir William continued his zeal and added another 10,000 seedlings.

For 13 years Sir William waited, and then it was apparent that the black walnut seedlings would develop to tree-hood. Five years ago Sir William bought another adjacent 50 acres though at a much advanced price, and engaging the help of students from the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph, planted 50,000 more seedlings. By the exercise of his faith and foresight Sir William now has a plantation of 45,000 black walnut trees. He found that the black walnuts, a different species entirely from the common English walnut, when surrounded by other high trees, will push themselves up higher than those trees until they command the top position and the benefit of the sun's rays. Therefore he planted them 400 to the acre, and they rear up high and knotty in the face of the sun.

For high class furniture and other such uses the black walnut is unequalled. Sir William Mulock will start marketing his trees upon full maturity, about which time it is said States will be running short. In making rifles the knottiness, evenly balanced wood of the black walnut is unequalled. One well grown tree will yield about 300 board feet, be valued at at least $100—that is seen the return in millions for the venture some spirit and foresight of a Canadian who proved that trees favor the south. In the southern States can also thrive near the waters of Lake Ontario.

Colonel Jamieson, of Edmonton Addresses Kiwanis and Veterans

The Kiwanis luncheon Tuesday evening took the form of an Armistice meeting, and was addressed by Col. Jamieson of Edmonton, who spoke very forcibly on Canadian status as a nation and the responsibilities of Canadians in the future. He briefly referred to the struggles of the early days and some of the events during the Great War. It was at the signing of peace at Versailles that Canada found her nationhood. It was the grim determined Canadian spirit that placed the Canadian corps in such an important position on the western front. None equaled them in efficiency at the beginning of the final stages of the conflict. We are now proud of our nation and we should stay independent. It would be a bad thing if we allowed anything to happen which we were dominated by another nation. We should, as Canadians, intelligently develop our resources and keep them for ourselves. Every Canadian should be interested in the confining federal and provincial legislation, which makes it very difficult to get action in some matters. Concluding, the speaker said that as Canadians we should take pride in building up a strong nation which would stand for the best things in life.

Kiwanian Bob Grant was chairman, and there were a large number of Wetaskiwin veterans as guests of the club. A silence of two minutes was observed during the course of the evening.

The regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Montgomery No. 458 was held in the Council Office on Saturday, Nov. 5. All the Councillors were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted on the motion of Councillor Maynard.

Correspondence was read from the following:

Dept. of Public Works re the replacement of bridges. Letter filed.

Also replacement of a bridge over the Battle River at S.E. 25-45-23-4, recommending that a more suitable site for this bridge would be obtained by moving it about 75 feet further down stream.

The Secretary was instructed to write the Department that as soon as the bridge is in place the Council will take care of the right-of-way for the approaches.

Moved by Councillor Bussard that the offer made by Mons Dyberg through his lawyers be accepted. Carried.

The City of Edmonton Health Dept. wrote asking this Local Board of Health to co-operate with them and the other Municipalities of the Province in a discussion and with a view to forming an association of Boards of Health, to arrive at a solution of the problems of health throughout the Province and the best means to promote a high standard of health and to fight epidemics. Moved by Councillor Maynard that Councillor Ballhorn be Deputy Reeve for the next six months. Carried.

Owing to the heavy expenditure necessitated by public works this year, account of (1) the wet season, (2) the extra amount of construction undertaken, and (3) the increased grant from the Provincial government which requires an equal amount from the Municipality, it was moved by Councillor Ballhorn that a supplementary appropriation be made to each division of the amounts as follows:

Division 1, $2,000; Division 2, $500; Division 3, $1,000; Division 4, $1,000; Division 5, $1,500; Division 6, $2,000. Carried.

For high class furniture and other such uses the black walnut is unequalled. Sir William Mulock will start marketing his trees upon full maturity, about which time it is said States will be running short.

In making rifles the knottiness, evenly balanced wood of the black walnut is unequalled. HYPNOTISM AS ANAESTHETIC USED IN MAJOR OPERATION

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Hypnotism has been used in place of an anaesthetic during a major surgical operation at St. Luke's hospital here.

The operation, performed on a young woman, was for the removal of adhesions in the abdomen and was reported a success. She was under hypnotic control more than an hour. While the case was under the direction of Dr. Alfred P. Solomon, of the neurological service, St. Luke's, the surgeon was Dr. Harold O. Jones, also a member of the hospital staff. Dr. Solomon hypnotized the woman.

A member of St. Luke's confirmed the report of the operation, but declined to give details, asserting its chief importance was scientific and that reviews would be prepared for medical journals and associations.

Other Men's Wives

Peter Durham was raised in a small town by simple, God-fearing parents who gathered their children daily around them for Bible reading and prayer. Peter grew to manhood, a young giant with dark brown hair glistening with red, and reddish brown eyes that met other men's eyes squarely. Then good Peter married Ida Winters, golden-haired, blue-eyed, petite, who did not know the Bible from Shakespeare nor Shakespeare from Longfellow, the only and spoiled child of a father who had never denied her anything.

Peter said she wasn't the wife for Peter. Peter thought her very much the wife for him—at first. That was during the brief honeymoon before she began to wear things. Even those simple, extravagant dresses at first made her doubly interesting because Peter had never known a woman could have such whimsies. But when she demanded ugly flapping galoshes; insisted that she must have a twenty-five dollar straw hat during a snow storm; and a gangly dress that barely reached her knees, and a new wrist watch because the shape of her perfectly good one was not the very latest; and a two-hundred-dollar fur during the dog days—then Peter found his brown eyes at how very dear this wife of his could be, and he set down very firmly but gently a number ten shoe with "Thus far and no farther." It was the fur that brought this ultimatum. Only a few months before he had paid a hundred and fifty dollars for winter furs.

Ida, trying not to laugh at the puzzled expression in Peter's eyes, pointedly reminded him that "other men's wives" had all of these things. "Would you rather be 'other men's wives'?" asked Peter gravely. "Of course not, silly! But that doesn't keep me from wanting to dress like the do and like papa dressed me."

"Well, I fail to see anything about the way other men's wives dress to fill anybody with longing," answered Peter. "As for papa," you left him of your own choice, you know." "Other girls who've married men I know—" "Think," said Peter. "You've married me, not some other man. From now on you'll have to take what I can afford or go without. I've been indulging you because it's been so close to our honeymoon—and it's meant a lot to me to have you, Ida. Now let me tell you something. I've exactly one dollar left in the bank—just enough to hold my book there. That stays, and it shall be added to weekly unless some calamity makes it impossible. You may have to wear a wrap or a dress through an entire season—I'm willing to wear my things until they shine. You may have to do some other things in the way of economizing. Our life isn't going to be a moving picture show. We're going to build worth while on a solid foundation.

"Estelle Loomis said, 'Holler Deane have the loveliest furs—cost a fortune,' persisted Ida, as though Peter had not spoken. "And I could have married either Dick Loomis or Harold Deane."

There followed a scene that horrified Peter and left him cold with mortification, but it did not move him any more than it would have the granite of his native state. Then Ida went home to her father.

Peter did not follow, nor did he call her up or send her word of any kind. A solid silence fell between them. That same granite in Peter made it possible for him to go about his business with even more than customary concentration, return to the barren, reminding house each evening, and the solitary meal prepared by sympathetic Nora, read the paper, retire to the lonely bedroom, get up in the morning and go through another day of it. Not to his innermost soul would he admit the desolation that had swept his life. If he kept on acting as though nothing had happened maybe there would come a time when it would seem that way, or perhaps Ida—but that thought he thrust hastily from him. He could not go and bring her home. If she came it must be of her own accord.

Two years passed thus. One blustery evening Peter was lounging before the fireplace smoking his old pipe when, as though the picture he saw in the cloud of smoke before him was real, she came into the room.

It was a paler, thinner, less golden Ida, with quiet aggressiveness, but a certain quiet confidence—an Ida incredibly matured for two years.

"I had to come Peter!" she said with a little gasp. "Is it true?"

"You'd better let me take that snow-covered fascinator off your head," he said, doing it as he spoke. "Is what true?"

"That you've been seen around with Estelle Loomis?"

"I expect it is."

"Peter!"

There was agony in Ida's voice that was precious to Peter.

"What have you been doing all these years, Ida?"

"Working."

"You working? At what? And why?"

"Do you know what papa said to me that day I went home and told him you wouldn't buy me a $200 set of furs, and that I'd get them for free because I knew he'd get them for me? He said, 'Bully for Peter! As for buying you a fur—I couldn't buy you a $2 fur. I'm being put out of my rooms next week because I'm behind on my rent. I lost my job because debts were worrying me so I couldn't keep my mind on business, and I'm getting old. And I'm where I am today all because of you (I won't say the words he did here, Peter) extravagance. You women drive men to hell with your fool wants!'"

"That's why I went to work, Peter. I had to. I've been taking care of papa, too, for the most part. He comes from house to house and makes pin money. I'm really good at selling gowns—my love of clothes did that for me anyway. Now I'll go. I'd heard that Estelle Loomis said it's true—'I'm sorry hoped—O Peter, I did love you—'"

The next instant Peter and drawn her into his arms and they were both in the big leather chair with Peter's red-brown head against her golden one.

"I've been with Estelle Loomis, sweetheart, but it's because her husband's absconded and she turned to me for help for the sake of the days when we all ran around together. It's not gotten into the papers—that was one of the things she begged me to take care of. But he couldn't keep up with Estelle's extravagance and so straight—"

"O Peter!" sobbed Ida.

"Well, she has herself to thank for being where she is. And of course you heard about the suicide of Deane. He was in the same hole."

"I'm too thankful for anything that you were firm—if you'd gone on like that and were dead now in such a dreadful way, or in hiding to escape the law, you're still mine and you're honest, although it's no credit to me that you are. But I'm glad I'm not any other man's wife. I can tell you."

"There are plenty that do get away with it. That's why the women keep urging them on. If another fellow can do it, why can't you? It's what puts a fellow on his mettle so that he feels he'll never admit to her that he can't do what the other man is doing. Deane and Loomis travelled together in business and they went down together. Now as to us. We'll have your father take a room with us—he's no business living alone as long as he has folks. And there's a desk he can have in our office. Even if he is getting old, his experience will mean a lot to a young bunch like us. There'll be a fairly good salary for him."

"You're good, Peter? O Peter, do you mean you will take me back?"

"You are back? You never have been out of my heart, and you never will be."

THE LAYING HOUSE
(Experimental Farms Note—)

It has been the custom to allow four square feet of floor space per bird in the laying house and houses 20x20 or 16x32 are recommended for 100 hens. In actual practice slightly less space is often allowed, especially where birds of the lighter breeds are kept. The space required per bird diminishes in proportion as the amount of floor space in the house increases, an area of only three square feet per bird being not uncommon in large houses.

Poultry houses are with very few exceptions of frame construction. As much permanence and cleanliness as possible should be recommended and if properly built on a foundation of loose stone or cinders to facilitate drainage are most economical in the long run. Where temperatures range below zero a straw loft is advisable since moisture from the birds tends to condense upon the cold roof over their heads and severe colds may result. The straw loft is supported by 1x3 boards, one inch apart nailed to the under side of the joists and hinged in several sections to allow for easy cleaning and renewal of the straw. A depth of from six to eight inches of straw is sufficient under ordinary circumstances for an efficient loft. As large an area as possible is left open in front to give the maximum amount of ventilation during warm weather.

An opening at least four feet in height and running the entire length of the house is recommended, the bottom half closed in by windows and the top wired and supplied with cotton screens, hinged to permit of opening when required. During the hot weather both windows and screens may be removed. The building is single boarded with the exception of back and ends which are single boarded on each side of the studding with building paper between, thus forming a wind proof air space.

If the straw loft does not extend over the roosts it is advised that the ceiling be boarded from the back to a point level with the outside of the dropping boards.

Blue prints of a house for 10 hens 16x32, for a colony house 10x12, and also a bulletin dealing with all phases of poultry house construction may be obtained free upon request from the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ontario.

The new milkman was a rather bashful young man, but he was most anxious to please his clients. An elderly lady appeared at the door of a grand house which he served, and haughtily put the question, "How much is my milk bill?" The young man blushed and stammered: "Begin your pardon, ma'am, but—my name's Jim."

CLOSE CHECK ON ALCOHOLIC DRINKS

Absolutely no deviation from the maximum standard of alcoholic content permitted by law in beer or ale allowed to be sold in hotel beer rooms will be maintained by the liquor branch of the Alberta government, according to Liquor Commissioner R. J. Dinning, in referring Friday to a recent order directing the withdrawal of a certain eastern ale from sale in the beer rooms of the province.

"At the request of a number of citizens," said Mr. Dinning, "we allowed this brand of ale to be stocked in the beer rooms on the guarantee of the eastern company making it that the alcoholic content would not exceed 4.5 per cent by weight, the maximum fixed by the Alberta law. The government chemist analysed samples from the first shipments and found them to contain 4.4 alcoholic content by weight, which was within the law.

"Similar tests, however, of the second shipments showed alcoholic content of 4.55 per cent alcoholic content by weight. This was above the legal maximum and we accordingly issued an order directing the withdrawal of the product from the beer rooms until we have some further assurance from the company manufacturing it that the alcoholic content will be kept within the legal maximum."

MONEY WILL BE EASIER

This has been a curious season in Alberta. Abundant rains fell when they were most wanted, but rains also fell when they retarded ripening and harvesting. The crop is exceptionally large. It is not all threshed. We must continue to hope for fair weather to reap it. The wheat is not all of high quality. There is much that is of the best and much that is of lower grade, but the volume will bring a vast sum of money to our farmers. More money will be put into distribution by the large amount of labor required by the cutting, threshing, hauling, the employment provided by the crop on railroads and in elevators, than would have been put into circulation by a smaller crop of more uniformly high grade. Another asset that will add to the general prosperity this year is the livestock industry. Cattle are selling now at better prices than have prevailed for many years. Livestock men and farmers owning cattle will benefit by this improved condition which is the more welcome in that this industry has suffered from severe disadvantages in recent years. The outlook on the whole is distinctly good when judged from the angle of volume of money produced by primary industries.—Herald.

POETRY

There were sundry baffling verses in a recent magazine, which I read with sighs and curses, and I know not what they mean. I can give a definition of all words that were employed, but these words, in coalition, formed for me an aching void. I have read them to my neighbors, on elocution bent, and they, after mental labors, couldn't guess just what the words meant. "Since we cannot understand it, this must be a mighty poem; and the genius who planned it has a most abnormal mind." I have called on learned professors, that its meaning I may strike; they are able, fearless guessers, but no two can guess alike. "It is great," they say, with terror, "product of a noble mind; the intelligent observer surely must its meaning find. It is certainly a treasure to the man who isn't dense; we would make it clear with pleasure, but engagements call us hence." I have read those cryptic stanzas up and down and in between, and I'd give my farm in Kansas for a clue to what they mean. For I hate to think I'm dotty, that I cannot get the drift of some verses tommyrot which should cheer me and uplift. When you learned friends are at nailing something subtle they have picked it, it is wearing, it is trying, to admit it has you licked. At these verses I have rubbed till my soul is filled with grief; and I turn to Mother Hubbard with a feeling of relief. She is dead and gone to glory but her history's at hand; some great poet told her story in a style I understand.—Walt Mason.

TRADERS WHO ARE DUMB

A merchant has forwarded us the following extract from the last week's issue of "The Grocer": "The most for all tradesmen, grocers and everybody else, who neglect to advertise and are, in a business sense, dumb, is obvious. This rhymed advice was suggested by the paucity of advertising by retail grocers in the author's own district in the south-east of England:

O tradesman, in thine hour of ease,
If on this paper thou shouldst see,
Take my advice, and now be wise,
Go straight ahead and advertize.
Thou'lt find the project of some un-
Neglect can offer no x q q q.
Be wise, therefore, prolong thy day;
A silent business man d k k k.
That man is dead who never t i l l
About the products that he s l l l—
His bacon, butter, eggs and ch o o o,
His pickles, pepper, plums and p p p,
His coconuts, coffees, tongues and t t t.
Th o o o grocers surely must be f a a
For who looks down sees not the s t r r
He only fills the "obit" p r r r.

PARALYSIS TAKES ANOTHER VICTIM

Stettler, Oct. 29.—Another fatal case of infantile paralysis developed in Donalda, a point on the Canadian National fifteen miles northeast of here when Dorothy Whitehorn died after a comparatively short illness. She appeared to be progressing favorably although paralyzed in one side and hopes were entertained for her recovery until two days ago when she suddenly took a relapse and passed away.

SAFETY RULES FOR STOVES AND FURNACES

Place stoves, furnaces and pipes far enough from walls and woodwork to avoid overheating.

Cover the nearest surfaces with sheet asbestos, sheet iron or tin; if iron or tin is used, leave an air space behind it.

Where stovepipes or heating pipes pass through walls, enclose the pipes in galvanized iron, double-walled, vented thimbles at least twelve inches wider than the diameter of the pipes. Protect the floor beneath the stove with sheet metal, and have it extend forward at least twelve inches directly beneath the floor of the asphalt.

Surround the base of the furnace with brick, stone or concrete.

Make sure that all pipes are free from rust and that all joints and connections are sound and tight.

Fit a guard about the pipe in the attic so that nothing may be stored against it.

Never pour coal oil into a coal or wood stove, even when the fire is out. Never put ashes into wooden boxes or barrels, have a strong metal can.

Study the drafts and dampers. Do not let stove or pipes become red hot.

Keep stoves, furnaces, flues and chimneys clean.

Inspect the chimneys and flues to be sure that they are sound.

Do not dry wood in an oven.

Do not hang wet clothes too near to a stove.

Keep curtains away from stoves and pipes.

CANADA IS PROSPEROUS

The Bank of Montreal in its current business summary for Canada says, the state of the trade and the state of public finance are closely related that from one may be read the condition of the other. Indicative of the prosperous case of both is the announcement of the Minister of Finance that Dominion Bonds bearing 5 1/2 per cent interest, amounting to $29,968,000 maturing on November 1st next, and $8,000,000 Treasury Notes due November 15th, are to be paid off out of cash in hand; while $53,437,000 of the 1917 Victory Loan 5 1/2 per cent, maturing December 1st, are to be in substantial amount retired from similar funds. But capital and interest charge of Canada's public debt will thus be diminished, and opportunity given for further remission of those forms of taxation which operate against investment in industrial enterprises and the development of natural resources. No recession of business activity is apparent. Production of manufacturers and distribution of goods, both wholesale and retail continue at highwater mark. Available bank returns are not later than August 31st, but at that date note circulation was as high as a year ago despite the late fall deposits were larger both on the month and the year; and commercial loans showed a moderate increase. The activity of general business is also reflected in bank debits and bank clearings which mount from month to month, and have significance not so much in Montreal and Toronto returns, even in stock market transactions, as in the gains in smaller cities.

LONE RIDGE

A meeting of the Lone Ridge U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. was held in the hall here on Thursday evening last. Owing to the absence of C. C. Reid, who was to have given an address, Mr. Christie of the Dairy Pool, was the principal speaker. He gave an outline of the work of the pool and the address was well received by the large number present. Mr. Moore, Dominion Dairy promoter, also gave an instructive address. There was also a delegation present from the Hillside local to arrange details for the debate to be held on November 23rd. Mrs. Christie, a director of the U.F.W.A., gave an inspiring address to women on the aims and objects of the movement, and emphasizing what might be accomplished by equity and co-operation. The women enjoyed the talk very much and are looking forward to another address by Mrs. Christie.

"I must admit sir," said the accused man, "that in a moment of weakness I did steal the cartload of brass fittings."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the solicitor. "I wonder what you'd have taken had you been feeling strong?"

two years ago and the trial shipment of stock sent over at that time, the extensive interests in Japan which Captain Kawakami represents are interested in the importation of beef cattle for slaughter and beef and dairy cattle, horses and swine for breeding purposes, on a scale which will greatly increase the volume of Alberta's trade with the Far East, if the plans at present contemplated materialize.

Alberta Fish for Chicago Market
A large shipment of salmon trout from Lake Athabasca to Chicago recently indicates a forward step in one of Alberta's growing industries. The Lake Athabasca Fisheries Ltd., has gone into the business of supplying the large markets of the United States with the popular product of Alberta lakes. A large plant and ice houses along with dwelling accommodation for fifty employees have been erected and plans are made for further enlarging the business as the market demands.

Alberta Hospital Association to Meet
The Alberta Hospital Association and the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses will hold their annual joint convention in Edmonton on November 21 and 22. One of the features of the meeting will be addresses by Dr. McEachern, director of hospitals for the American College of Surgeons, who is recognized as the leading authority on hospital methods on the continent.

"University Steers" for Royal and International Shows
Many good herds of Alberta cattle will again be represented this year at the Toronto Royal and Chicago International livestock shows by steers contributed by various breeders in the province and fitted by the department of animal husbandry, University of Alberta.

Included in the shipment which left during the past week for Toronto are five Aberdeen Angus steers, four Herefords and nine Shorthorns, comprising one of the best exhibits ever sent from Alberta to the big eastern shows. The Aberdeen Angus entries include one from the Thompson herd at Vegreville, one from Dickson and Hunter at Inglewood, one from C. H. Richardson of Bowden and two bred on the McEachern Ranch at Banika while the Shorthorn entries include one from the G. M. Thomas of Youngstown, and W. W. Sharpe of Stettler, and four purebreds and one grade from the University herd.

Alberta Grain Again to Seek International Honors
Alberta entries will again be heavy at the Chicago International Hay and Grain Show, according to Provincial Field Crops Commissioner W. J. Stephen, and some splendid samples from this province will compete with the best from all parts of the continent. Herman Trullie of Wembley, winner of the world's championship in both wheat and oats at the 1925 show will again be among the exhibitors this year. In addition to a number of prizewinners in previous years, several new growers are exhibiting. Among the list appears the name of Nels Linden, Wetaskiwin.

WHEAT POOL NOTES

The string of 165 Wheat Pool elevators established something of a record when they reported handlings of 650,000 bushels in one day.

The Wheat Pool terminal at Prince Rupert loaded the first cargo of wheat from the 1926 crop for Europe this week.

The annual meeting of the Alberta Wheat Pool will be held on Wednesday.

Violent Headaches

Until She Found "Fruit-a-tives"

MRS. MICHAEL COULIS.

Once again a former sufferer, grateful for relief given by "Fruit-a-tives", returns heart-felt thanks:—

"I used to feel tired out and rundown, and periodically had severe headaches," writes Mrs. Michael Coulis, Kinross Station, Ontario. "After using 'Fruit-a-tives' the headaches and tired-out feeling soon disappeared, and for two years now I have been in the best of health."

For over 20 years "Fruit-a-tives" has been a positive boon to thousands of Canadians afflicted with headaches, indigestion, constipation and kindred ills due to failure of the kidneys, stomach, bowels or liver to act properly.

"Fruit-a-tives" is so universally successful because it is a natural medicine—made from the intensified juices of fresh fruits combined with tannic. Let it help you, too. Buy a box, to-day. 25c and 50c everywhere.

Invasions in large numbers this year. They will have all kinds of schemes to get the people's money. But if the producers of wealth watch their step and buy good stocks and bonds with the savings they may have after they have made necessary improvements to their farms, it thinks the whole country will be better off.

PRAIRIE FIRE SWEEPS SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Medicine Hat, Alta., Oct. 22.—Fifty thousand acres of grazing land along the C.P.R. in the vicinity of Ronalane have been destroyed by prairie fire during the last two days and many buildings have been destroyed and the lives of many antelope lost.

The land so damaged, will be useless for further grazing this year and scores of antelope which were not destroyed are to be seen running about blinded and devoid of hair. Many herds of dead antelope have been found. The chief damage, however, was sustained by the grazing lands.

The fire came perilously close to destroying all the buildings at Ronalane, as the plough house and barn were consumed.

Fanned by high wind, the flames spread with incredible swiftness—the fact that antelope were caught, amply demonstrates that fact. It was only through the fact of the wind shifting completely around that saved the entire countryside.

A middle-aged woman riding in a tramcar began weeping at a young mother's awkwardness in holding a fretting baby.

"I declare," she snorted, "a woman ought never to have a baby until she knows how to hold it."

"Now a tongue, either," calmly responded the worried young mother.

TRIPLE PROGRAM OF BOXING
VOCAL AND MUSICAL NUMBERS
AND MOVIES ON NOVEMBER 21

Sports Association Far From Slings in Their Menus—Big Crowds Anticipated
(From Surrounding County—Provincial Mitt Champions in Action—Proceeds for Athletic Purposes)

It cannot be said that the Wetaskiwin Sports Association are skimping in their menus. On Labor Day they presented a big money's worth program in the exhibition grounds, and the boxing bouts in particular were so favorably received by not only the men, but the ladies and young folk, that they have responded to the expressed desires of many citizens and arranged a program of boxing, vocal and musical numbers by a local band, and movies on Monday, November 21, to include motion pictures, vocal selections by a local band, and musical numbers by an augmented orchestra. The boxing bouts will be greater in number than on Labor Day. The bouts have been arranged for the contingent being supplied by the Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Legion, ten of the best amateur boxers in that city, several of whom have provincial championships in their respective classes. The boys who were here on Labor Day will again appear on the August stage, and among the newcomers special interest will be manifested in the appearance of Peter, a former amateur champion of Sweden. The top prize for the winner will be seventy-five cents for reserved seats, with the house scaled downward from that. All of which is somewhat different to paying up to a couple of dollars to a couple of pence for possibly but a few moments' rough-house entertainment.

The Sports Association have arranged great obligations in its endeavor to provide Wetaskiwin with the ideal athletic park, second to none in the province. While the Legion in the capital city is arranging for five evenly contested events, without the participants getting a single for their performances, the local Association is faced with great expense in connection with the program, transportation, etc., in itself being a considerable sum, and the committee does not want to allow the occasion to pass without giving to each of the boxers some suitable memento of the appreciation of the people of the community in their past and coming appearance here. If the Association, therefore, in its function in accordance with its policy in community effort, a one hundred per cent home is necessary if any appreciable amount of the capital is to be devoted to the work of the Association.

The date was purposely set for the 21st in order that every opportunity might be afforded for the residents of the surrounding district to attend this big, triple bill, and it is anticipated that the rural sections in four directions will be represented by a large number to whom the provision of an athletic park here means much in the way of summer amusement when they visit the city.

Would Have Pros
and Amateurs Mix

The following resolution adopted at the recent annual meeting of the Alberta Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will probably provide one of the big thrills of the annual meeting of the Dominion body to be held in Edmonton in December. "Whereas it may be anticipated that the National Registration Committee, at its annual meeting, of the A.A.U. of C., has granted authority to permit amateurs to compete with or against professional athletes in senior basketball, where such competition is controlled by a body recognized by the branch said Committee, or meeting, however, to have every assurance from the branch of their that the interests of amateur sport are best being served thereby; it is provided that the Registration Committee, or annual meeting, may, for just cause, withdraw the application of such provision, and the jurisdiction of the branch involved." The effect of the adoption of the proposition would be to localize rather than nationalize the intermingling of amateurs with pros, and then only with respect to senior basketball, and may be termed a modification of the Jackson proposition which was defeated at the annual meeting of the parent body at St. John last December. The branch meeting prior to the adoption of the above resolution had defeated a motion to seek amendment to general rule number six by insertion of the word "basketball," thereby to read: "An athlete shall not lose his amateur status by competing with or against a professional in basketball, cricket, golf or indoor bowling." Still, obedient to the Alberta meeting, the annual meeting of the British Columbia Branch by a vote of 5 to 4 registered opposition to either of the proposed amendments introduced at the Alberta Branch session. British Columbia last year deferred the Jackson proposition.

NOTES OF SPORT

Athletes who secured first places in the Olympic Trials held recently in Toronto have by no means any definite assurance that they will all find a place on Canada's Olympic Team; that is, if the public statement made recently in Edmonton by a prominent member of the Olympic Committee, is given credence. It was explained that the viewpoint held by the Committee is that in some events Canada's best would make but a sorry showing, and that it could not be in the best interests to have on the team too many athletes whose possibilities of obtaining points would be very meagre. It was further pointed out that other nations were cropping forth which warranted development with possibilities of added strength to Canada's quota, and that this would possibly affect the personnel. The speaker expresses much optimism with respect to the anticipated showing of Canadian athletes at the Olympic Games, and that Canada will make a much improved showing at the world championships.

A baseball war in amateur ranks has been threatened in Ontario as the result of the decision of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association in ordering the replay of a game between Hamilton and Windsor. The tilt went on to the ninth frame, when a Windsor pitcher pitched the ball to deep outfield and scampered around the paths for the lone tally of the game. A protest was entered that the run would not have scored but for the crowd swarming over the lines and interfering with the outfielder, and was sustained by the Association.

The Alberta branch has selected the following delegates to the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, to be held in Edmonton December 1, 2 and 3: C. B. Chessman, Carleton Place; B. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwin; A. B. King, Okotoks; J. W. Johnston, Calgary; W. E. Plover, and J. Leslie, Edmonton; J. W. Wright, Medicine Hat; Judge Jackson, Lethbridge; and R. S. Stronach, Banff.

Governors of the A.A.U. of C. to represent that province on the national board, were elected at the annual meeting of the Alberta Branch as follows: C. B. Chessman, Carleton Place; B. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwin; J. Leslie, Edmonton; H. H. H. King, Okotoks; Lethbridge; Chief of Police Taylor, Medicine Hat; A. B. King, Okotoks.

The annual meeting of the Alberta branch of the A.A.U. of C. will next year be held at Banff, Alberta. It is proposed that a big track and field meet will be held there at the same time.

The Alberta branch of the A.A.U. of C. has adopted an amendment to its laws to the effect that when a suspended athlete has been reinstated, any subsequent suspension of said athlete shall be considered as permanent. The branch will endeavor to have the Dominion body incorporate the provision in its laws at the forthcoming annual meeting.

SILVER TONGUED OPATOR
TO SPEAK ON "CITIZENSHIP"
IN ANGUS THEATRE

Plans are now complete for the two days visit to Wetaskiwin of Captain S. N. Dancy, the well known lecturer. He comes as the guest of the Elks Lodge of Wetaskiwin, and a two day program, beginning on Tuesday, Nov. 15, and continuing through Wednesday, Nov. 16, is staged under the auspices of the Elks with the co-operation of other local organizations.

Perhaps no speaker on the public platform today has had a more varied experience than Captain Dancy. Immediately following the signing of the armistice, he was taken out of the armistice of occupation and under the direction of the Allied leaders was sent to fight propaganda at work amongst the troops and to maintain the morale of the men previous to embarking for the homeland. Millions of soldiers, French, American and British were stirred by his oratory and humor, so much so that Captain Dancy was invited to address the members of the French Cabinet, which honor he accepted. Today he cherishes a number of valued souvenirs, gifts from the Allied leaders. Since his return from overseas, he has covered more than 14,000 miles through Canada, the United States and Alaska. Papers like the New York Sun referred to him as one of the most interesting and forcible speakers New York has heard for some time and everywhere the press sing his praises and pay tribute to the cause he espouses.

Captain Dancy has a wonderful fund of information, the result of his world travels and his five years service at the war. He has an exceptional strain of humor and the most indifferent audience enjoys him to the full. He will have a message for the people of Wetaskiwin that every man, woman and child should hear, and the word that comes from other Alberta communities where he has already spoken is to the effect that he can afford to make his hearing him. With his talk to the public gathering on Wednesday evening, he will associate some of his experiences as a prisoner in the hands of the Germans and his ultimate escape over the Holland frontier.

Captain Dancy will speak in the Angus Theatre on the evening of Nov. 16th, his subject being "Canadian Citizenship."

RE CHAIRMAN PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD'S HOSPITALITY

Hallowe'en passed off as usual. The kiddies had a good time, and the genial chairman of the school board shared his hospitality by distributing stickers, irrespective of grades.—News Item from a contemporary.

Our Chairman is a genial chap. He's what you call a lonesome chap. He is in fact a dandy. For irrespective of their grade. Of when and how they all were made. He feeds 'em candy.

No nice distinctions does he draw. He really doesn't care a straw When he dispenses tucker. He loves to load their little tins, And make them all as light as dimes With the nourishing succulent, snicker.

A Chairman who is built like this, Who spreads abroad such joy and bliss, Deserves appreciation. And so it is for long he'll be The symbol of philanthropy. To the rising generation.

UNITED CHURCH ITEMS

The W.M.S. annual thank offering, meeting will be held in the church on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 3:30 p.m. Miss Connel of Edmonton will give the address. A special program is being prepared. Refreshments will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Taxpayers are holding an Older Boys' Conference, which opens Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

The nominations to the Alberta Boys' Parliament must be made before

November 20. This district may elect two members to parliament, one of whom may be a "Trail Ranger." The deputy returning officer for this district is Rev. A. L. Elliott, Wetaskiwin.

BANK OF MONTREAL
110 YEARS OLD

On November 17th, the Bank of Montreal celebrates its 110th birthday. The bank began business in Montreal in rented premises in 1817, with a paid-up capital of $350,000. Those were the days of the stage coach when trade was carried on principally by barter and exchange and international trade was on a very unstable basis. The Bank of Montreal, however, prospered from the first and was the first bank in Canada to introduce the branch system of banking, which has contributed so much to the stability of the Canadian banking system. Today it has branch offices scattered all over the world thus affording financial connections for international trade.

The total assets of the Bank of Montreal are now over $750,000,000.

The Wetaskiwin branch has been in existence since 1922, when the Merchants Bank of Canada, was absorbed by the Bank of Montreal.

OIL RIGHTS HELD BY CROWN, DECISION

By a unanimous decision of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, it is held that the ownership of the oil and gas rights on Alberta lands which have been reserved to the crown by order-in-council passed by the Dominion government, are still vested in the crown and did not pass to patentees of homesteads.

This decision is the result of two appeals from judgments by Mr. Justice Walsh, who held that these order-in-council were within the powers of the governor-general-in-council. The appeals from Justice Walsh's decision were brought by John Cronin, whose action was against United Oil, and by Frank E. Starling against the new McDougall-Segar Oil Company. The land in each case is located in Turner Valley.

ALBERTA CATTLE BRING
BIG PRICE ON U.S. MARKETS

The United States rather than Great Britain is now the logical market for Canadian cattle, according to A. E. Cross, one of the oldest cattle breeders in the country and who has had remarkable success with a shipment of more than 300 head of beef steers and cows to the Chicago market. Despite the heavy duties demanded by the Fordney-McCumber tariff which places a levy of from $25 to $30 per head on cattle imported to the United States, the sales were profitable because of the high prices now being paid at that centre.

The top steers in the shipment weighed in many cases more than 1400 pounds and the top prices paid ran from 15½ to 16 cents per pound live weight for beef steers, and about 10½ cents per pound for fat cows. These are believed to have been record breaking prices. The animals were taken from the A7 ranch and shipped from Lundbreck on October 26.

The Bureau of Animal Husbandry at Washington issued recently, suggests that the present upward trend of prices may continue for several years. Should this forecast be true, breeders should not be too hasty to dispose of their female stock even at the attractive prices now prevailing.

Such an opinion was also voiced by Mr. Cross on Thursday morning during an interview.

SAYS PAPERS WIELD
GREAT INFLUENCE

That the town weeklies of Alberta wield more influence in provincial affairs than ever before was the statement of the Hon. George Howley in an address given to members of the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association at their annual convention held in Calgary recently.

Mr. Howley claimed that the kindy criticism which certain of the town weeklies had occasionally directed towards him had helped him to a great degree. He believed that there was an increase of opportunities for such papers within the Province and suggested that a political armistice should be called for the next three years for the purpose of a united effort to develop the province.

Lawyer: I wish to inform you that your wife is seeking a divorce. Husband: Fine; tell her to get one for me, too.

Painted the King

This is Richard Jack, R.A., who made King George still for 4 periods of 30 minutes each while he painted His Majesty's portrait. The artist's daughter, Doris, prefers the humble camera. Both posed two seconds on the Cunard liner Ausonia, on which they came to Canada. Mr. Jack, it is said, will paint the Governor-General's portrait and perhaps one of President Coolidge.
